

Better access to technology leads to success for SMEs

To remain competitive and energy-efficient, small- and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) need access to the kind of sophisticated logistics systems that global corporations use. But such systems are usually beyond the resources of SMEs. ESSENCE seeks to establish a free ICT network that lets SMEs manage logistics and optimise their supply chain by designing their own business networks. Project pilots explore the use of customised eServices that give logistics support to individual SMEs.

www.essence-project.eu

